Holiday Home Work

- 1) Make a project on Emerald Earth using the following value points.

There is a pleasure in the pathless woods
There is a rapture on the lonely shore
There is society, where none intrudes
By the deep sea, and music in its roar
I love not man the less but Nature more.

- Write two poems on nature (of any nature poet) describing its beauty and loveliness.
- Nature is not a place to visit, it is home.
Write Chief Seattle's letter (refer to the internet) to show the affinity of man with nature.
- Write an article on how man is posing threats to nature to attain his selfish motives.
Suggest the ways to improve the situation.
- Which is your favourite wild animal? Why do you like it?
Write a small poem on it (self-composed). It can be a limerick.
How is this animal important to the environment (refer to the food chain from the internet)?
- Write 15 idioms and sayings related to animals. Write their meanings too.
- Write a notice inviting the people of your society for a GREEN CAMPAIGN to save the Earth.
Give necessary details.

2) Fun things to do during holidays.

- Have you ever visited a wildlife sanctuary? Visit a wildlife sanctuary or a zoo.
- Choose an animal from the list of endangered species. Go online and look for books related to that animal.
- Read one and write its summary and stick it in a book cover (make a book cover of the book chosen by you for reading).
- Watch movies related to animals:
 - Born Free
 - Spirit
 - Fern Gully: The Last Rainforest
 - Soylent Green
 - Avatar
 - Princess Mononoke
 - The Man Eaters of Kumaon
- A follow up and a class discussion will be done in July when the school reopens.

3) Scrapbook

Your Main Course Book provides you with a variety of units. As you read the newspapers and magazines daily, cut out news and articles related to:

- Surprise and Suspense
- Emerald Earth
- Nature's Power Unleashed
- The Wonder Years
- Paste them in a scrapbook.
- Pick out five difficult words from each article and write their meanings in the scrapbook itself. Also write what part of speech that word is (noun, adjective, adverb and verb).

ENGLISH ASSIGNMENT I I TERM - Class VIII

SECTION A – READING

1. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow in the space provided.

OLYMPICS

The credit to start the modern Olympic Games goes to Baron Pierre de Coubertin of France. He was born in Paris 1862. His parents wanted him to join the army so he joined the Sanik Academy. Soon he left it and started to study political science. Having studied political science he came to know about the national and international problems. He thought that the national and international problems could be easily solved through sports. It was Coubertin's desire to restart the ancient Olympic Games at the world level. He called a meeting of various countries. Many countries opposed the idea of Olympic Games. Some countries viz. Italy, Spain, Greece, and Sweden were in favour of commencing the Olympic Games whereas the rest of the countries opposed it. The first modern Olympic Games were held in 1896 in Athens. 122 countries participated from all of the world. According to Coubertin, the Olympic games aimed at developing patriotism and fraternity among sports persons and also promoting international peace and cooperation. The Olympic motto comprises of three Latin words- Citius, Altius and Fortius which means Faster, Higher and Stronger, respectively. The Olympic flag is as popular as the Olympic motto. It was created in 1913 at the suggestion of Coubertin. The Olympic flag is made of white silk and contains five interlocking rings in five colours representing the five continents of the world viz. America, Europe, Australia, Asia and Africa. The five rings have different colors viz. yellow, green, blue, red and black. The interlocking of the rings symbolizes cooperation and friendship.

When Autumn Came

This is the way that autumn came to the trees:
It stripped them down to the skin,

Left their ebony bodies naked.
It shook out the yellow leaves which were their hearts,
scattered them over the ground.

Whoever wanted, trampled them out of shape;
Not a single moan or protest was heard.
Birds that herald dreams
Became strangers to their voice
When their song was throttled.

They dropped into the dust even before the hunter strung his bow.

Oh, God of May, have mercy.
Bless these withered bodies
With the passion of your resurrection,
Make their dead veins flow with blood.

Give some tree the gift of green again.
Let one bird sing.

Faiz Ahmed Faiz

WINTER TIMES

Late lies the wintry sun a-bed,
A frosty, fiery sleepy-head;
Blinks but an hour or two; and then,
A blood-red orange, sets again.
Before the stars have left the skies,
At morning in the dark I rise;
And shivering in my nakedness,
By the cold candle, bathe and dress.
Close by the jolly fire I sit,
To warm my frozen bones a bit;
Or with a reindeer-sled, explore
The colder countries round the door.
When to go out, my nurse doth wrap
Me in my comforter and cap,
The cold wind burns my face, and blows
Its frosty pepper up my nose.
Black are my steps on silver sod;
Thick blows my frosty breath abroad;
And tree and house, and hill and lake,
Are frosted like a wedding-cake.

-Robert Louis Stevenson

5. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow in the space provided:

Children need to learn to take care of themselves because schools can be very stressful. They need guidelines on ways to be able to return to the present moment, to be able to handle their emotions and realize that their emotions are not in their control. This guideline is what we call mindfulness training.

Mindfulness meditation is the practice of stopping and becoming aware of what we are thinking and doing, in other words, introspecting. The more we are mindful of our thoughts, speech and actions, the more concentration and clarity we develop on what we are doing and the greater is our depth of understanding of a situation.

Teachers and parents have to become role models for young people. Through mindful practices such as mindful breathing and mindful walking, they must be able to stop and look deeply and be calm in order to see the root and the consequence of an event/action/act with understanding and peace. If teachers can do that, children will follow it as well. Similarly, we have to learn how to handle our anger without venting frustration on our children. We have to reach out and help diffuse the violence within ourselves.

Questions:

1. What can be stressful for children?
(a) School (b) Home
(c) Society (d) All of the above.
2. What do students need to be able to handle their sentiments?
(a) Lectures (b) Counselling
(c) Arrogance (d) All of the above.
3. What is mindful meditation?
(a) The practice of stopping and becoming aware of what we are thinking and doing
(b) Time management
(c) Task management
(d) Trouble management
4. Teachers and parents have to
(a) become strict (b) become serious
(c) become role models for young people (d) become haughty
5. 'Stressful' implies
(a) meditation (b) causing tension or worry
(c) incorporated (d) relaxation

6. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow in the space provided:

The fabled pearl carpet of Baroda, a rare jewelled masterpiece that was once part of Maharaja Khande Rao Gaekwad's collection, is set to go under the hammer next month. The centerpiece of sale in Doha on March 19, the carpet has never appeared at an auction before. Bidding for it is expected to start at $5 million.

Just two years ago, the mothball-sized Baroda Pearls from the same collection had sold for a record $7.1 million in New York. This time, too, the auctioneers, Sotheby's are hoping it will beat estimates even in these times of economic downturn. "Works that are truly rare and special like the carpet will always find a lot of buyers," said Henry-Howard Sneyd, Sotheby's deputy chairman for Europe and Asia.

Embellished with an estimated two million natural seed pearls as well as diamonds, the carpet sure has the razzle dazzle to attract buyers. Crafted in 1865, the Pearl Carpet has tumultuous story behind it. In the early 1860s, Maharaja Khande Rao of Baroda, considered one of the most notable jewellery collectors of the 19th century, had a desire to offer a priceless Pearl Carpet at the shrine of the Prophet in Medina. He wanted it to be just like the Pearl Carpet over Mumtaz Mahal's tomb in Taj Mahal.

Questions:

1. What is set to go under the hammer?
(a) A car
(b) A rare jewelled masterpiece
(c) A motorbike
(d) A table
2. How was the pearl carpet retained?
(a) As a state treasure
(b) As a personal asset
(c) As debt
(d) None of the above
3. When was it crafted?
(a) 1965
(b) 1876
(c) 1865
(d) 1864
4. What did the auctioneers hope?
(a) It will beat estimates even in these times of economic downturn
(b) It will not attract the common masses
(c) It will not be sold
(d) None of the above
5. Find words/phrases in the passage which mean the same as the following:
'to make objects especially in a skilled way'
(a) rare
(b) crafted
(c) auction
(d) tumultuous

ENGLISH ASSIGNMENT II
IITERM - Class VIII

SECTION A – READING

1. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow in the space provided:

Today there is a lot of talk about the environment. All nations are coming to an agreement to save planet earth. Like we pollute the earth, we pollute water; we also pollute the subtle environment through our negative feelings and emotions. We have become a victim of our environment. We are not in control of our mind. We hear a lot about other things in life but we spend a very little time to hear about ourselves. How to handle our mind? How to be in the present moment? How to be happy and grateful? This we have not learnt. This is the most unfortunate thing. Then what is the solution. This is where we miss a very fundamental principle that governs our environment, our mind, our emotions and our life in general.

Our body has the capacity to sustain much longer the vibrations of bliss and peace than it does negative emotions because positivity is in the center of our existence. Just like in the structure of atom, protons and neutrons are in the center of atom and electrons are only the periphery, same is with our lives; the central core of our existence is bliss, positivity and joy but is surrounded by a cloud of negative ions. Through the help of the breath we can easily get over our negative emotions in a short period of time. Through meditation and certain breathing techniques, we can clear this negative cloud.

This life has so much to offer you. You can see this once you take some time off, rejuvenating the soul. Your soul is hungry for a smile from you. If you could give this, you feel energized the whole day and nothing whatsoever can take the smile from you. Take some time off to look a little deep into yourself and calm the mind down. Thus erasing all the impressions that we are carrying in our minds, experience the presence, the divine that is the very core of our existence. This is feeling the presence.

Questions:

a) Find words in the passage that mean

- i) Luckless.....
- ii) Boundary
- iii) Happiness

b) Answer the following questions briefly:

- i) What is the central core of our existence?

.....

- ii) How can one overcome one's negative emotions?

c) Complete the following sentence:

Our body has..... to sustain much longer the vibrations of..... bliss and peace than it does negative emotions because positivity is in the center of our existence.

2. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow in the space provided:

Mr. Dussel Becomes a Dentist

Dussel has opened his dental practice. Just for fun. I'll describe the session with his very first patient. Mother was ironing, and Mrs. van D, the first victim, sat down on a chair in the middle of the room. Dussel, unpacking his case with an air of importance, asked for some eau-de-cologne, which could be used as a disinfectant and Vaseline, which could be used as wax. He looked in Mrs. van D's mouth and found two teeth that made her wince with pain and utter incoherent cries whenever he touched them. After a lengthy examination Dussel began to scrape out a cavity. But Mrs. van D had no intention of letting him. She failed her legs and arms until Dussel finally let go of his probe and...it remained such in Mrs. van D's tooth. That really did it! Mrs. van D lashed out wildly in all directions, cried (as much as you can with that instrument in your mouth), tried to remove it, but only managed to push it in even farther. Mr. Dussel calmly observed the scene, his hands on his hips, while the rest of the audience roared with laughter. Of course, that was very mean of us. If it'd be me, I'm sure I would have yelled even louder. After a great deal of squirming, kicking and shouting, Mrs. van D finally managed to yank the thing out, and Mrs. van D didn't have time to react. But then he had more help than he's ever had before: no fewer than two assistants; Mr. van D and I performed our job well. The whole scene resembled one of those engravings from the Middle Ages entitled "A Quack at Work". In the meantime, however, the patient was getting restless, since she had an eye on "her" soup and "her" food. One thing is certain: it'll be a while before Mrs. van D makes another dental appointment.

Questions:

a) Find words in the passage that mean

- i) Cry due to pain or distress
- ii) Shouted.....

b) Answer the following questions briefly:

- i) What problem did Dussel find in Mrs van D's teeth?

ii) How did Mrs. van D react due to her fear?

3. Read the following poem carefully and answer the questions that follow in the space provided:

Law of the Jungle

I have heard
There is a law of the jungle
I have heard when the lion has eaten his fill
He never attacks
He goes to lie under dense shady trees
And when the rough gust
Shakes branches of trees
The mynah leaving her own young
Cover the frail crow's eggs
With her protective wings.

I have heard
When any bird-young falls out of the nest
The entire jungle wakes to rescue.

I have heard
When the weaver bird's nest

Reflects on the lake
The silvery fishes adopt it as neighbour
And if the rough storm breaks the foot-bridge
Then on a wooden plank
Squirrel, snake, goat and cheetah walk in a file.

I have heard
There is a law of the jungle

4. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow in the space provided:

High up among the mountains of Switzerland, there lived a man called William Tell. He was known far and wide as a brave man, a great hunter and an excellent archer. Switzerland at that time was ruled by Governor Gessler. He was a cruel, vain man who wanted his subjects to worship him. He passed harsh laws, some of which were funny.

Once he placed his hat on a high pole by a roadside and ordered all who passes by to bow before it. The Swiss were brave and proud. They thought it ridiculous to bow before a hat. Not a single Swiss went past the road where the pole was fixed. So no one ever bowed to the hat because no one ever passed it.

One morning William Tell came into town with his small son. He had not heard of this strange law, so holding his son’s hand, he went past the pole. “Stop,” cried the soldier who was on guard near the pole.

“What’s the matter?” asked Tell.

“Why do you not bow before the hat of your master?” asked the soldier.

William Tell burst out laughing and said, “I have never heard of a man bowing before a hat? I am not going to do it.”

While they were arguing, Gessler rode up with his company of soldiers.

“What is the matter?” he asked.

“This man will not bow before your hat sir,” said the soldier.

Gessler frowned and looked angry and he asked his name.

“William Tell”

“So you are William Tell, the finest archer in the country,” said Gessler sarcastically. “I will give you a test. If you pass it, you shall go free. Gessler dismounted, went up to the small boy and asked him, “Are you William Tell’s son?”

“Yes I am,” the boy replied proudly.

Gessler dragged the boy to an oak tree, placed an apple on his head and turned to Tell. “Hit the apple with your arrow and prove to me what a great archer you are.” William Tell was speechless and the soldiers were also horrified.

“How can I shoot my own son?” William Tell asked himself.

Tell’s son gazed at his father with love and trust in his eyes. He said, “Father please hit the apple and prove that you are an excellent marksman. I promise I’ll stand still.”

William Tell had no choice. He took out two arrows-one he put in his belt and the other he strung to his bow. He took the aim and shot-the apple split into two. Tell’s son came running into the waiting arms of his father and the clung to each other.

“Before you go”, called out Gessler, “Why did you take out two arrows? Why did you put the second arrow in your belt?”

Looking into Gessler’s eyes fearlessly, Tell replied, “The second arrow was for your heart. If the first arrow had hurt my son, I would have used the second arrow.”

5. Read the following poem carefully and answer the questions that follow in the space provided:

The Fisherman

The fisherman goes out at dawn
When everyone's abed,
And from the bottom of the sea
Draws up his daily bread.

His life is strange; half on the shore
And half upon the sea-
Not quite a fish, and yet not quite
The same as you and me.

The fisherman has curious eyes;
They make you feel so queer,
As if they had seen many things
Of wonder and of fear.

He knows so much of the boats and tides,
Of winds and clouds and sky!
But when I tell of city things
He sniffs and shuts one eye!

-Abbie Farwell Brown

"The Mountain and the Squirrel"

The mountain and the squirrel
Had a quarrel;
And the former called the latter 'Little Prig'
The squirrel replied,
'You are doubtless very big;
But all sorts of things and weather
Must be taken in together,
To make up a year
And a sphere
And I think it no disgrace
To occupy my place.
If I am not so large as you,
You are not so small as I,
And half not so spry,
I'll not deny you make
A very pretty squirrel track;
Talents differ; all is well and wisely put;
If I cannot carry forests on my back,
Neither can you crack a nut.'

-Ralph Waldo Emerson
